

In Natures Name: An Anthology of Womens Writing and Illustration, 1780-1930

From the late eighteenth to the early twentieth century, hundreds of British women wrote about and drew from nature. Somelike the beloved childrens author Beatrix Potter, who produced natural history about hedgehogs as well as fiction about rabbitsare still familiar today. But others have all but disappeared from view. Barbara Gates recovers these lost works and prints them alongside little-known pieces by more famous authors, like Potters field notes on hedgehogs, reminding us of better known stories that help set the others in context. The works contained in this volume are as varied as the women who produced them. They include passionate essays on the protection of animals, vivid accounts of travel and adventure from the English seashore to the Indian Alps, poetry and fiction, and marvelous tales of nature for children. Special features of the book include a detailed chronology placing each selection in its historical and literary context; biographical sketches of each authors life and works; a comprehensive bibliography of primary and secondary literature; and over sixty illustrations. An ideal introduction to womens powerful and diverse responses to the natural world, In Natures Name will be treasured by anyone interested in natural history, women, or Victorian and Edwardian Britain.
